Poetry.

Onward! Onward!

BY D. D. K. GEORGE.

Onward, onward flows the tide—
The tide of human life;
Spreading its waves far and wide,
Battling with care and strife.

Onward, onward it ever flows,
Toward the human sea;
Onward, onward it ever goes,
Bearing both you and me.

Onward, onward it still rolls,
Thro' earth and sea resounding;
Onward, onward, thro' life's shoals,
It goes its way bounding.

Onward, onward, it lashes its waves
Toward its final rest,
Soon we will be in our graves,
In our graves at rest.

Onward, onward, it passes on;
It cannot, cannot, stay;
And when the victory is won,
We will rejoice amid eternal day.

Selected Story.

Margery.

BY SYLVIA BROWN.

A great, great fear haunted Margery's life. It followed her through the house by day, and crept into her dreams by night. It had worn wrinkles into her face and a sore place in her heart. It seemed to her that her heart had become ossified; that she was cold and dead, and that her life was a constant falsehood. There was a sad, weary look in her face and eyes, as if a burden of unhappiness had been dragging at her heart, and she could never find rest.

Ten years before there had not been a more happy or contented girl in Lyndon than Margery King.

Seth Ransom was away in California, then, which was farther from Lyndon twenty years ago than the antipodes seem to-day. He had gone for gold, and the visions which appeared to him in his ambitious dreamings told him that he should come back and build a palace for his queen Margery some golden time, and deck her with jewels and ornaments fitting her worth. Margery had girlish faith in all these Arabian dreams, and promised to wait for him until he should bring the treasures of this Ophir to her feet.

Oh! the dreams of young men's hearts when, in the first thrill of life's battle, they look glory-ward as well as to the bright love star that holds them by its light! It is well for their untried energies that all the world glows in the splendor of morning light.

It was a long, long time before Seth reached the golden land, and Margery was almost ready to believe him dead when his first letter came back to her. She took it eagerly and shied away into the garden behind the grape vine, and blushed and trembled as if Seth's own eyes were reading her glad heart. She remembered a spot that had burned upon her lips for days after he had gone, and she kissed the letter and cried over it before she could break the seal.

That letter! Oh, it was wonderful! Seth was thousands of miles away, yet that square folded sheet with its seals of red wax brought him back to her. She had passed it to her heart and with tears of joy in her eyes had murmured a little prayer of thanksgiving and blessing, which the good angels must surely have wafted to his heart and shed about him as a holy fragrance of hope and content. That little moment of Margery's life was sweet as heaven, and she believed that her joy, her great loving, her rapture of thanksgiving and of prayer reached him and was about him at that moment as a comforting presence, a shield against evil and all temptations, and as a hope to insure his success.

And so, too, we would fain believe that all the infinite loving of a woman's heart and the strength of her holy outreaching prayers must go with an unerring magnetism straight where they are sent, and hover like the gentle wings of guardian angels, to protect the beloved object from unseen danger.

Margery's letter lasted her for a long time, for it was not a letter writing age in those days, as now, and California was very far away: besides, there were many mishaps to homeward bound letters before the mail bags passed from the wild mining regions to the Golden Gate, and sometimes they never reached their destinations at all, and people waited months and months, with heavy hearts, fearing death had gathered their beloved among his own.

Year after year went by to Margery, bringing a letter every three or four months, with sometimes a trinket of gold which Seth had fashioned from the native ore, or a pretty stone he had found embedded in the rock; and again, perhaps there would be a tiny paper of seed from some peculiar and beautiful flower.

The fortune did not gather at the command of the magician, as in wonderful Eastern tales. It was hard toil and a hard life. Sometimes he would get almost enough, when misfortune was sure to befall him; he was robbed when asleep, by his fellow miners, or he would fall sick and somebody would think it necessary that all should be spent before his recovery, and then a new beginning would be made.

Margery became accustomed to his absence, or his constantly postponed return, and mingled in society with the same bright spirit of cheerful enjoyment which she had always possessed, until people forgot she had an absent lover, and wondered why she did not encourage some of the many admirers who flittted about her in the social light of these waiting years.

One day Margery was making pies in the kitchen. She had pared a great pan full of luscious, tart apples, sliced them, mixed the crust, and was just rolling it out, singing as she worked, that old song of the maiden.

"Wooing Heaven itself to bring her
Jamie from the stormy sea."

She heard a step at the kitchen door behind her, but supposing it to be her brother getting a drink of water at the pump, she neither looked up nor ceased her singing.

"Forth I sprang, my heart o'ercame me," and a deep voice behind her chimed in.

"Grieve no more, sweet, I am Jamie,
Home returned, to love and thee."

Margery started back in surprise; but somebody's arms were about her, somebody's bronzed face was before her, somebody kissed her, the rolling-pin fell from her hands and went spinning across the floor, while Margery cried outright.

Her reason told her it was Seth; who else could be so bold? Yet she would never have guessed it was he, for the years had changed him; he had grown so dark, so much older, his hair was so long and he was so unlike the Seth who had left her at that very door so long ago. Margery looked into his face with a scrutinizing, wondering look, but it was really he, and she would see him now every day.

The old time letters, freighted with hope and tenderness, would be missed. She would miss the pleasure which she had so much enjoyed, of sitting at her little table in the attic chamber, after her work was done, jotting down the incidents of her homely life, telling all the household news, and relieving her heart of all its troubles and griefs, which were often of great magnitude to her, yet seemed too small and foolish to tell to any one else; at least she would not dare to tell these trifles to any one but Seth, lest she should be thought weak; but here she felt sure of sympathy, and the very telling of all that was in her heart was a comfort.

Ah, that joy was gone now. There were no more letters to write. How could she talk face to face with Seth or anybody else, with the same sweet, whole-souled confidence she had given to the one far away, as her imagination had floated her away to an ideal world? Seth's heart had seemed so near to her before; but now she feared she could never look right into his eyes and tell him all her thoughts so freely as she had done on paper. He was very different from the one she had imagined in her heart all these years. She had been worshipping at an ideal shrine whose divinity was afar off, and the reality, which her ever busy thought had crowned with the grandest of human perfections, as she approached, seemed farther away than the valleys of the Sacramento. She had expected his return would be quite different. She had pictured it to herself many times. Alas! nothing is ever so bright in this world as the pictures we create.

A few months after Seth's return they were married, and here began the unhappiness and trouble of Margery's life. She could not bring back the same feeling of trust which she had sent to her lover across the miles of mountains and plains in the sunset land. She remembered that he had waited for her, had toiled and suffered for her sake all these years. She loved no one else, but she wished that the anticipated joy of his return had come with him. She wondered sometimes if the long waiting had not worn out the richest capabilities of her nature. She tried to do her duty faithfully, hoping that in the end she might find the reward of happiness. Did a doubting heart ever yet know the great peace and rest that God gives only to those who unreservedly trust Him—only to those whose souls rise as an exhalation of fragrant faith and mingle themselves in His perfect and infinite love?

It was not Seth, but herself, whom Margery, doubted; and this doubt was a millstone dragging her into the black gulf of despondency and unrest. Every day as the years wore by, it became a more burdensome life to her. She believed she was doing a great wrong to allow all of life to wear on in this miserable way. It was wronging Seth, who had been so good to her. She was assured she had made a great mistake on that spring morning, when, with the air odorous of apple blossoms, when bees and birds were sending their sounds of happiness all about, and all the earth seemed murmuring songs of gladness and loving delight, she had gone in her fleecy, soft cloud of muslin drapery up the aisle of the village church with Seth Ransom, and before the alter had solemnly promised to love him.

She had believed then that she did; but they seemed to have grown farther from each other; and, though she believed firmly in Seth's affection, it failed to stir her heart to a richer life. She knew now the trouble. She did not love him. She was sure that she was unworthy of him. He was good, noble and faithful—the best man in the world. He had unbounded confidence in her, but she was incapable of feeling the value and greatness of all this.

So Margery reasoned in the bitterness of her grief. It must be ended. She could not endure it, and was only adding to what was bad enough already. Sometime Seth would know what an unfeeling heart she had, and would hate her. She would sooner die than that should ever happen.

As the golden stores of the miners' harvest had been small, Seth had purchased a little farm not far away from Lyndon. It may have been that this more secluded life caused Margery to feel lonely, and to enlarge her sorrows by brooding thoughts in the long days which she spent so much alone. She determined it should be ended; the burden of her life should be cast away.

Seth had gone over to the Elm Creek mill, and might not come home before evening. Margery had been pondering for weeks about the step she would take, and to-day she determined it should be settled. She had put everything in the nicest order, had laid the supper table, and prepared some of Seth's favorite pastries. She had lingered over her work in a sad, yearning way, wishing, with a vague fear and longing, for some happiness to qutet the crying of her heart and save the great pain.

There were so many things she found to do—trifles which, perhaps, he would notice, and it might be, seeing them, he would think of her kindly. She had written a letter, telling him why she had gone. It lay by his plate, on the table. She felt it would hardly be right not to leave some word for him; and then she wondered if he would care much.

She went out of the house shivering with cold and an indefinable fear, not daring to look behind her. She walked rapidly until she had passed the garden and the orchard; then she stopped, and looked for the last farewell view, she would permit herself, of the house which had been her home. She thought of the time when she had first come there; then her memory went back to the years of glad hope and awaiting. It seemed that she was still waiting, that her heart still yearned for one who was all of life to her. If she could only find the rest from all this yearning! If she could only sit by the attic table and write out to Seth all the burden of her sorrow, to the Seth far away in California, to whom her heart had been reaching out in vain for so long—and get one of his tender comforting letters, the burden would be gone! She had brought these old letters with her; she could never part from them. They were the words of one she had loved as no woman's heart had ever loved before. She wanted, just now, to read them over again, but she must not stop. She walked on, thinking of the great comfort they had given her so many times in the years before: She turned at the corner, taking the road that led to her mother's. She had to cross Elm Creek to reach there. The bridge had been swept away by a freshet in the spring, and only one of the long stringers remained, which served as a foot-bridge. Seth had gone in the opposite direction, in the morning, to the mills, some ten miles below this point.

As Margery reached nearly the middle of the narrow path across the stream, she heard a wagon coming down the graveled, sloping bank before her. She had been so deeply absorbed in her own thoughts that she had not heard it approaching, and now, as she looked forward, she saw it was Seth. He had come home by the long road. In the suddenness of her surprise, a faintness came over her; she did not see the log on which she was crossing, and stepped forward upon—nothing.

There was a splash in the swift current beneath which attracted Seth's attention, and he caught a gliimmering of something like a woman's dress being swallowed by the waves. He dropped the reins instantly and sprang into the stream. Elm Creek was not a mere brook but a very river at some seasons of the year. The late rains had come sweeping down from the hills and were hastening on their mad way to the great river beyond.

It was a fierce struggle to reach the figure that was one instant visible, then swept on by the wild waters to appear at some other point further down, but she was saved and brought to shore at last.

The horses being left to themselves in the water, quite naturally made their way to the homeward shore, where Seth found them as he crawled up the bank with his dripping, limp burden.

Without once looking to see who he had rescued, he placed her in the wagon and spread a blanket over her, then drove home as fast as possible. A boy whom he met was sent speedily for a doctor. As soon as his own gate was reached he sprang from the wagon, took the motionless from his arms, blanket and all, and hastened up the path to the door, calling out as he entered, "Margery! Margery! Come quick! Here is a poor, drowned woman who fell into the Creek as I came up."

No Margery answered. No sound came from any part of the house save the tick, tick, tick, tick of the kitchen clock and the shrill chirping of a lonely cricket.

"She must be in the garden," said Seth. She usually came to the door when he returned from anywhere. But something must be done at once to restore life to this poor woman who had so nearly gone to a watery grave, if life was yet there. There would be pain for somebody if—

"Oh, my God! Margery! My own Margery! Is it you, and I did not know you?"

He had removed the wet sunbonnet that had drooped clingingly about her face and prevented him from seeing it before. He might have thought sooner to remove it or to look carefully at the figure before him, but he had been so excited himself and knew that he must hasten home with her before anything could be done, as his house was the nearest to the ford.

He made haste to place her in warm, dry flannels; to rub her with dry cloths and apply every restorative of which he could think.

"Margery! Oh my own Margery!" he cried, "Will you never speak to me again? Will your dear lips never open and your warm heart never beat on my breast again?"

He pressed one lingering, fervent kiss upon those lips. They were warm! Yes, there was a light beating of the heart, so he diligently renewed his efforts at restoration. A warmth began to steal up through the veins, and presently a motion was visible to reward his labors.

He went to the door to see if any person was in sight who could render assistance. As he passed the tea table spread ready for his supper he observed a letter lying beside his plate. It was directed in Margrey's hand writing. What could it mean? His mind suggested an easy solution. The table was spread for but one. Doubtless some neighbor had been ill and sent for Margery to spend the night in nursing. He thrust the letter into his pocket and returned to her side. She was breathing with more ease, but did not appear to know him. A neighbor soon came in who had learned from the boy whom Seth had sent for the doctor, that somebody had been drowned. Leaving Margery to her attendance, Seth went out to care for his hungry horses. When he reached the barn he thought of the note in his pocket and opened it. It was a closely written, tear-blotted sheet. That did not look like a mere visit of ministering mercy to any neighbor, surely. The letter was as follows:

SETH:—I am very unhappy. I fear I did a great wrong in marrying you. You must know the truth at last, and I pray God it may not break your heart as it has been breaking mine for so long! You have always been very good to me, but I have not deserved it. I know that you love me, but oh, Seth, do you know what a very iceberg my heart is? I try to love you but my heart is dead. I have lost the capability of loving anybody. I used to write you every little thought, and it seemed that you was very near to me, and I loved you then, Seth, when you was so far from me, with a transport of feeling that filled me with gladness. When you come back from Califonia, I could not make it appear a reality that it was you to whom I had given all the sweet springs of my life. I was afraid somehow, to tell you face to face, what I had so much enjoyed writing to you. You did not seem to me the same one I had loved so happily while absent, yet I knew it was you, and I thought that feeling of strangeness and reserve would wear away; but it does not, and I feel more reserve toward you, and that I have no heart at all, the longer I live. I know it is wrong to live with you and feel thus toward you. I do not hate you; but I do not love you and I know you ought to be loved, you are so good and so generous. Oh, Seth can you ever forgive me for having made this great mistake? I cannot forgive myself, but I want you to think kindly of me, though you must despise me. It is for your sake I go away, because I cannot give you such a wretchsd shell of a love as my hard, unthankful heart has. Pity me, Seth, rather than blame me. I have grieved thus until I cannot bear to live. I am going home to mother if she will take me.

Good bye. May God bless you!

Your unworthy MARGERY.

"The poor, weary heart! What a fool I have been not to see that something was troubling her and wearing out her life! And here she has broken her heart for want of the old time confidence which she cannot feel, yet so sadly yearns, for; and in the strength of her pure love she fears that she has wronged me, and would go from me let it be a sin to be cared for by me. Poor little that has no resting place! It is I who have sinned in not seeking the better to understand the nature of your hungry heart that depends so much on another for its comfort and rest. I will keep this and it shall always remind me of my duty."

He folded the letter carefully and placed it in his pocketbook. It had given him the first glimpse into the real depths of Margery's heart since he had met her that sunny morning, long ago in the kitchen. When he went back to the house he found the doctor had arrived.

"She must be kept very quiet. There is a tendency to fever. If it is baffled she will be well again in a few days."

After preparing an imposing array of cordials on the stand by the bedside of the patient, and giving directions in regard to each, with a professional bow he departed.

Magery was not conscious of anything, and soon sank into a quiet sleep.

The neighbor had gone home to her own family, but promised to send some one to stay during the night in case assistance should be required.

On the floor in one corner of the room still lay Margery's wet garments. Seth took them into the kitchen and hung them by the fire to dry. As he spread out the dress across two chair backs something fell to the floor. It was a package rolled in a paper, and tied with a narrow bit of of blue ribbon. He picked open the wee knot, stripped off the clinging wrapper that had been folded so many times about the package, and found a number of yellow, faded letters. He seized and opened one eagerly, wondering what new revelation was here.

Some evil thing whispered in his mind a dark suspicion, which made his brow cloud into a frown. His first impulse was to throw the whole of this wet trash into the fire, but curiosity stayed his hand. He would know who had so poisened Margery's mind and come between them that she had, perhaps, through self-reproach, sought to end the misery which in her farewall note she confessed had embittered her life. He had no doubt now that she was unfaithful. Here was the silent witness before him. The writing was coarse and heavy, a man's hand undoubtedly. And Margery had dared tell him she did not love him, and had cherished these to the last.

He had saved her life that day. If she were false, had he not better have let her go down to destruction and the rest she had probably sought?—the only rest for her or him?

He had succeeded in unfolding one of the sheets without tearing it, but it was so blotted, and the water had so caused the writing so show through the paper, that it was difficult to trace the words in those interlacing and tangled lines. He spread it out before the fire to dry, that he might examine it the more carefully and preserve it if need be. As soon as it was dried he began to search for the hidden mystery. The date was not legible, nor the place from which it was written; but plainly enough it was addressed, "My own dear Margery."

Who could have written that to her—to his wife? What was written was nothing to the point now; it was who? The sheet was written full to the very bottom, then interlined, and scrawled closely into the corner for lack of room was, "Your ever faithful Seth."

He had expected some astounding discovery, and could hardly have been more surprised. It was his own letter. Margery's life was as clear as the crystal stream from which he had that day rescued her; her heart as pure and white before him as an angel's.

Margery was not well in the few days, as the doctor had predicted. The great mental excitement and trouble which had so sorely pressed her had deranged her nervous system. The accident

TO-DAY

Our issue this week occurs on the day of the election. Be the result of the vote in the State what it may, we feel that we have done our duty as a citizen and a journalist. While we have been free and outspoken in our discussion of the questions involved, we have endeavored to be fair, courteous and truthful. We have been severe in our animadversions upon the Democratic party it is true—it deserves it,—but we have refrained from indulging in anything personally offensive on its individual members. We care very little for men, but we do care a great deal for principles.

Of course the returns will be slow in reaching us, but we hope to learn sufficient to be able to announce in our next issue that "all is well." Then our people with renewed hope and confidence, can devote their attention and energies to the development of the great material interests of this favored and beautiful country. Much depends upon what is done to-day.

DEMOCRATIC FOLLY.

The Democratic party of the country is far from being united. This is not only true so far as the national organization is concerned but it extends into every State and the "want of harmony" is the complaint in them all. Many of the shrewder leaders—those who are starving for the "loaves and fishes" have boldly launched into the "new departure," but the rank and file do not follow them. This fact, with the other fact that the old leaders such as DAVIS, STEPHENS, TOOMBS and DEAN spit upon the new platform, tend to embarrass them amazingly. They well understand that unless the party distinctly declares that it accepts the recent constitutional amendments and agrees that the work of reconstruction shall stand they will be beaten, worse than ever before, in the Presidential canvas of 1872.

Not only are the old leaders failing to adopt the "new departure" platform, but the Democratic members of Congress in their recent Address likewise failed to do so. These leave the country to understand that we are to go into the next Presidential election on the issues of the last, and fight again over Blair and the Brodhead letter. No wonder the office hungry Democrats cry out "it is enough to make a Job tear his hair." The leaders have piped the doleful tune of centralization, corruption and extravagance for the past eight years, and few converts have been found to dance to it. The remembrance of the din of war is too fresh, and hence while the Democratic party refuses to recognize the expediency of accepting the results of the war, this strain is a vain one.

The folly of these Democratic leaders is boundless. They are Napoleons who wish to fight Waterloo over again every fourth year. They will be badly beaten as they deserve to be.

HOW TO INCREASE FARMER'S WEALTH.

Too many of our Southern farmers do not realize the true secret of advancement and wealth. They are slow to comprehend the fact that farmers, all over the world, grow rich not so much by the annual market value of their crops as by the enhancement of the value of their land. In different countries this is done in different ways. In the older States it is effected by the amelioration of the soil. In the newer ones, by projected railroads, inviting settlement, etc. In this country it may be accomplished by both.

The rule is universal that the farmer who expects to become wealthy must depend to a large extent upon raising the market value of his land. It is a mistake for the Southern farmer, be he a large or a small one, to base his calculations for riches upon his crops alone. No matter how successful he may be, it is the same old story of "the goose and the golden egg."

In arguing this matter some of our desponding farmers have replied, "if this is true, it is better to go to a new country." We answer, No. It is a great mistake for a poor man to leave this old country, where its lands, once rich, are now cheap and only begging for a little attention and patience to become rich again. It is naturally fertile; it is adpted to all the staple crops; its climate is genial, and its proximity to the great markets is also in its favor. These, with energy, and a wise course by all the people will soon attract the attention of imigration and capital. And then every man owning property in North Carolina will feel his wealth gradually increasing.

It is safer, and cheaper, and altogether better to bring your old land up to a market value of $20 or $30 per acre by your own energy and industry than to pay out that sum per acre for any of the lands in the West.

Senator MORTON in reply to the Merchants of Cincinnati a few days ago expressed the opinion that never in the history of this country had we such favorable prospects as now. The late treaty with England he believed to be the greatest tribute ever paid to the character and power of our nation. This treaty gave us assurance of peace for years to come, and inaugurated a new era among nations in the settlement of differences without war. He encouraged merchants by presenting a bright business future, and assuring them that he never in the course of his life saw more confidence than was now felt.

SYSTEM IN FARMING.

We hold that system in farming is everything. And yet how fearfully is it neglected. As well might a Dry Goods merchant hope to conduct his business profitably without system as a farmer. One of the directions in which this neglect of systematized routine is most apparent, is the indifference displayed by so many of our American farmers in regard to their daily operations with hand help. They are content to entrust every thing, or a large portion of farm work, to help who, too frequently care but little whether the work assigned them is done well or otherwise. Economy should pervade all the departments, and none more so than that of labor. MARTIN, in an admirable essay on Scotch farming says:

"Economy of labor is the grand characteristic of practical farming in Scotland. There are no half employed loungers; and every man has his work allotted him, which he must perform, or give his place to another who can or will accomplish it. Farm implements for cultivating the land are mostly made of iron, and are simple yet strong in their construction, and effective in their operation. Every process of farm work is quickly executed, and so arranged as to avoid all confusion or unnecessary delay. The farmers seldom work with their own hands; but every operation of any nicety or importance is conducted under their personal inspection. Considerable rivalry exists among them as to which shall have the cleanest farm and the best crops, and this spirit is fostered by the operations of local agricultural societies, in the shape of premiums and sweep-stake competitions."

This was written over a dozen years ago. Since then, some of the suggestions have been carried into effect in this country; but there are others of equal importance which have been sadly neglected, especially those in relation to the employment of hands and the cleanliness of farmers. At all events, the facts presented are worth the attentive consideration of all our farmers.

THE LADY'S FRIEND FOR AUGUST, 1871.—A very attractive number—full of the good, fresh stories that people like to have for summer reading, and bright with illustrations of all kinds. The steal plate, "The Carrier Dove," seems to represent a fair Parisan lady in the besieged city, receiving a message. There is the usual Colored Fashion Plate, and numerous wood cuts of ladies' dress and fancy-work. The music is the Bridal Galop. An illustrated story by Daisy Ventor leads off the literary department, and there is another by Madge Carrol. Annie L. Muzzey begins a fine serial "Jealousy;" Amanda M. Douglas continues her excellent story, "A Little Money;" Eleanor C. Donnelly has a pretty poem; and with a variety of other interesting stories and poems make up a delightful number. The editorial department of this magazine is to some readers their favorite portion. Price $2, 50 a year (which also includes a large steel engraving). Four copies, $6. Five copies (and one gratis) $8. "The Lady's Friend" and the "Saturday Evening Post" (and one engraving) $4. INDUSTRY LENGTHENS LIFE.

DR. GUY, an Englishman, in calculating the average duration of life of the wealthy classes, arrived at the very surprising result, with regard to adults, that the higher their position in the social scale, the more unlimited their means, the less also the probability of a long life. We have been so long accustomed to consider the possession of riches as the best guarantee of physical welfare, that many will be surprised to hear from GUY that "the probability of the duration of life lessens, with regard to the adults in each class of the population, in the same degree as the beneficial impulse for occupation is lacking. If a person who for a long time has lived an active life retires from business, it may be taken for granted, with a probability of ten to one, that he has seized the most effective means to shorten his life."

MENTAL AND MANUAL LABOR.—Professor Houghton, of Trinity College, Dublin, has published some curious chemical computations respecting the relative amounts of physical exhaustion produced by mental and manual labor. According to these chemical estimates, two hours of severe mental study abstract from the human system as much vital strength as is taken from it by an entire day of mere hand-work. This fact, which seems to rest upon strictly scientific laws, shows that the men who do brain-work should be careful, first, not to overtask themselves by too continuous exertion, and secondly, that they should not omit to take physical exercise each day sufficient to restore the equilibrium between the nervous and muscular system.

Dr. P. John, our old and much respected "boss," of the North Carolinian goes in strong for the State "Constitution as it is," and will not tolerate any tampering by the Conventionists. It would seem odd in this connection to say that the Dr. keeps himself in good humor by the eating of ripe tomatoes, green corn, and watermellons. Good for him, if he likes them—Tunkhannock, (Pa.) Republican.

Of course we like them, as we do all the "good things" of this life. We may add that we are now, in addition to the above, luxuriating on grapes, early sweet-potatoes, pumpkin pies, etc. Come and see us. You'll find our "latch string" out.

Crimes seem to move in cycles as do fashions. The modes of murder and suicide come around and return again as do the modes in costumes. And so the era of poisioning has returned. In Connecticut the noted SHERMAN case is that of a woman accused of poisoning three husbands and eight children. In Kentucky a young woman is now under arrest charged with poisoning her husband, and in Baltimore Mrs. WHARTON is accused of having, by the use of drugs, made way with several human beings.

Fifty or more prisoners are on trial in the Island of Martinique for complicity in the late insurrection.

Capt. David H. Todd, formerly of Lexington, Ky., and brother of Mrs. Lincoln, died at Huntsville, of consumption.

Gen. W. T. SHERMAN has expressed the opinion that Gen. GRANT will not only be renominated for next President but that he will be and OUGHT TO BE re-elected. This opinion coming from so sagacious and impartial an observer as the General, and from one whose opportunities for information regarding the public sentiment of the whole country are so extensive, is deserving of great weight.

The New York Times is prerenting an astounding array of figures which bear indisputable evidence of fraud on the part of the Democratic Mayor and Controller of that city in the distribution of the public moneys. The frauds amount to millions! After such a startling expose let no one question under which rule their interests are best guarded, and forever let Democratic journalists hold their tongues about Republican corruption.

Correspondence.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.,
July 31st, 1871.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

I have been requested by the Superintendent of Oak Grove Sabbath School of Perquimans county, to return thanks to Mr. John A. Small, through the columns of your paper, for the able and eloquent manner in which he addressed that Sabbath School on Sunday last. The subject of Mr. Small's remarks was:—"The importance of a well spent youth." He discussed this subject with much satisfaction to the large and intelligent audience that were in attendance, and no doubt made deep and lasting impressions upon the minds of all who heard him.

The whole audience were held in profound silence by Mr. Small while speaking, listening to the good and invaluable advice which he was giving.

There are about eighty pupils in attendance at Oak Grove, Sabbath School, together with a sufficient number of officers and teachers who labor indefatigably in order to keep this school in a prosperous condition.

Yours truly,
AMIENS.

A Game of the Democracy.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, July 27.

Several of the North Carolina officials, now here, assert that it has come to their knowledge that a combination has been formed in New York for the purpose of buying up the evidences of debt against North Carolina which are now exempt from collection, owing to the construction placed upon the State Constitution by the present judiciary of the State. By them it is held that the Constitution exempts real estate, of the value of $1,000, and personal property, to the value of $500, in all cases, from seizure for debts incurred both before and since the adoption of the Constitution. The candidates for the judiciary, under the proposed change of the Constitution, are leading lawyers of the Democratic party, and should they succeed in so amending it, that the Senate will be delegated with the power to make these judicial appointments, instead of being elected by the people, as at present provided for, they will take their seats, and allow the whole State to be sold out for debts incurred previous to the adoption of the present State Constitution. To carry this out, no amendment will be required, as a declaration by them that they construe the law to apply to debts incurred since the adoption of the Constitution will be the only step necessary to place millions of dollars in the hands of the Ring. It is stated here, by Government officials from North Carolina, that propositions have been made to purchase the bills held against property in that State.

The details of the late earthquake in the Phillippine Islands show that the calamity was widespread in its effects, and that the attending phenomena must have been terrible indeed. The island where the earthquake was most disastrous has been depopulated, but not destroyed.

A child living in the family of G. C. Marchinger, of Newport, fell from the second-story window a few nights since, and its night dress caught upon a branch of a tree, and tore until nothing but the hem remained, which fortunately sustained the child until it was seen and rescued by a gentleman in the next house.

In New Orleans there is an ice factory which is said to turn out sixteen tons of ice per day, running six machines, which cost $2,500 in gold. A BEAR has been discovered in Oregon this year, which was perfectly white, excepting that its long ears and a streak down its back were black. Nothing of the kind was ever seen before. It was, without doubt, an emblem of the new departure of the "white man's party."

Mr. C. Stone, a reporter for the Philadelphia Age, was drowned, on Sunday, in Rancocas Creek. He had been bathing, and was walking on the bank when his hat was blown off, and in attempting to recover it he got beyond his depth, and was drowned. Mr. Stone was possessed of considerable literary ability, and was well known as an amateur actor.

Mr. Joseph Caldwell, a well-to-do citizen of Columbus, Ohio, unaccountably disappeared more than twelve months, since, and very recently, as it has been discovered, died in a lunatic asylum in New-Orleans, and was buried in a pauper's grave. It is said that one of the Emperor William's grievous annoyances is, that Bismarck always beats him playing chess. The Lynchburg News learns from good authority, that a married man, named Robert Sumner, who resided near Pedlar Mills, in Amherst county, eloped with a young girl named Sallie Stinnett, on Sunday night, leaving behind him his wife and a small child. It is not known in what direction the parties went, but it is supposed they will endeavor to make their way to the West. Sumner is about 35 years of age, and the girl who he carried off with him is between 17 and 18 years old.

The Fulton (Mo.) Fair Play of the 26th states that a portion of the bridge on the Louisiana and Missouri Railroad, now building over the Anvanse River, eight miles north of Fulton, fell last Sunday, carrying with it nine men at work on it, over 100 feet to the bed of the river below. A. McGills was killed and Charles Gray fatally injured. George Bremington and William Brothers suffered severe internal injuries, and will probably die. The others were not seriously hurt.

A parallel for the fate of Vallandigham is found in one of Boccaccio's stories of a girl and her lover: "They were in a garden together; the young man raised a flower to his lips and slightly bit one of the leaves; he fell; in an instant he was dead. She who was accused of poisoning the man she loved best on earth besought her judges to be allowed to revisit the fatal garden, promising that she would show them how the thing was done. They granted her prayer. 'It was thus,' she said, plucking a flower. She put it to her lips; her teeth just pressed a leaf; in an instant she was a corpse."

A "spirited widow" has been enlivening Wadesboro, N. C. After biting and scratching several relatives, she was arrested, but quickly "chawed up" the Judge, annihilated the Constable with a "deftly slung" ink bottle, and floored the jailor with a vigorous kick.

"Mother," said a little girl who was engaged in making her doll an apron. "I believe I will be a Duchess when I grow up." "How do you ever expect to become a Duchess, my daughter?" her mother asked. "Why, by marrying a Dutchman. to be sure," replied the girl.

J. J. McElhone, short-hand reporter of the Washington Globe, can, it is said, write with both hands at the same time, the left taking notes and the right transcribing. He is said to be the only man in the world who can do this.

No man is a man until he is tried; till he has passed through the ordeal; through deep water and scorching fires. A man surrounded with comforts, friends and relations, food and raiment, whose barns are filled with plenty, and whose presses gush out with new wines; who eats his fill; sits and reads, doles about, takes his ease and pleasure; smoking his pipe and chewing his quid; is he a man? Far from it. A man is not a man until he is proved—has passed the ordeal; drank the bitter cup to its very dregs; risen above life's conflicts mountod the billlows of the wave.

What a wicked shepherd is here! His name is the Rev. Mr. Sanford, he is a minister, and he contracted to take care of a flock in Ghent, Ky. He had a nice wife, and wielded his crook for some time very respectably. Then he forged a check for $1,500 and got the cash; then he disappeared from the sacred ranche, and took a lady of his congregation with him, leaving his wife to shift for herself. He soon deserted the woman he had deceived and she returned to Ghent, reporting the reverend rascal to be in Indiana. Officers in pursuit traced him to Vincennes, where he had been figuring as an M. D., having there married still another woman and deserted her. He was a shifty scamp, for he was next at Fort Wayne, where he lectured on phrenology and mesmerism, having mesmerized another lady out of $500. A very remarkable rogue? The officers are still after him, but we doubt if they catch him.

POISON IN THE KITCHEN—The use of copper cooking utensils is not objectionable, if they be kept clean; but certain substances employed in cooking have a tendency to dissolve the metal. Oils and fatty matters have this action. It has been said that they must first become rancid; but this is not the case. Fresh butter has been found to act on copper, and the surface of a copper plate has become blackened in twenty four hours, when covered by that substance, and the butter itself has become green: this only occurred when it was in contact both with the air and the copper. One therefore concludes that the presence of air is necessary to produce this result. Dr. Christison says that, in fresh hog's lard, he has found that the whole lard in contact with the copper becomes blue, even to a depth which the air can scarcely reach. Hot oil acts in a similar manner. One knows the effects produced in old fashioned brass lamps, where the oil which remained in the receiver for the drippings was almost invariably green. Vinegar, and the vegetable acids generally, dissolve copper, in the presence of atmospheric air. It seems to be necessary to keep the metal covered with the fluid, and then these effects are not produced. It is however most dangerous to allow any acid substances that are to be used for food to stand for any length of time in copper vessels. Preserves are usually made in copper or bronze pans; these should be emptied out as soon as the operation is completed, and the pans should be well cleaned, as the fruit acids would inevitably oxidize and form poisonous salts with the copper. Any amount for carelessness in the use of copper vessels on the part of servants, may be attended with very serious results, so that it seems almost advisable to abandon their use in favor of iron ones, which are not liable to these objections.

NORTH CAROLINIAN.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1871.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

New York Advertisements.
Bankrupt Notice.

Local and Personal.

☞ Grapes are appearing in our market.

☞ The fruits of our new municipal administration are already to be seen on our streets. Let the good work go on.

☞ A number of new street lamps have been put up. Let others follow the example. CHARLES S. DAVIS, at the Canal Bridge, can fill all orders.

☞ Our friend T. T. WHITCOMB has bought a splendid Trucking Farm in Currituck, near the mouth of the North River. There is no country equal to it for early vegetables.

☞ Hon. C. L. COBB spoke at Roanoke Island on Saturday and Shiloh yesterday. He leaves for Nag's Head this morning to spend several weeks in order to enjoy the rest he very much needs.

☞ Mr. FOWLER is still making improvements. He is a live, go-a-head man—just the sort to build up a town. The example of such men is contagious. Others, seeing their good works, follow after them.

☞ Mr. GARNER has charge of and an interest in our Job Office. He is industrious and is deserving of a liberal patronage. Let the orders for work keep coming in. He spares no effort to give satisfaction.

☞ We see that the late meeting of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows held at Raleigh our townsman W. A. HARNEY was appointed District Deputy Grand Master for this District. A better selection could not have been made.

☞ We pay no attention to the "jaybird" chattering indulged in by those who have scarcely passed the years of discretion. We have been able to take care of ourself in the past, are abundantly able to do so now, and we expect to be able to do so in the future. A word to the wise is sufficient.

☞ The Steamer Hertford will make an excursion to Nag's Head, leaving Elizabeth City at 7 o'clock A. M. on Saturday of this week and returning will leave Nag's Head at 8 A. M. on Monday. The Elizabeth City Silver Cornet Band will be in attendance. Fare for the round trip only Two Dollars. Now is the time to go.

☞ Our daily Boats to and from Norfolk are making excellent time, and, thanks to Capt. HARNEY, we are now served with our mails promptly. A daily mail is a great stride forward—another step towards "the better time coming." Let us all stand together, making "a long pull and a strong pull" for progress and all the improvements of this rapidly advancing age and they will surely be ours.

☞ The Democrats of Elizabeth City went over to Camden for J. L. CHAMBERLAIN to orate for them on Monday evening. He came and made a windy speech, interlarding it with stale jokes and some statements worse than stale. He is "a politician and a preacher. This thing of peddling politics and the gospel is slightly inconsistent." A man who isn't particular as to what he says on the stump ought to make another pilgrimage to Jericho before again entering the pulpit.

☞ On the night of the 23rd ult, during a severe gale the Brig Muscovado went ashore on Body's Island, completely wrecked and the entire cargo lost. The crew were all saved. The brig was built in Baltimore in 1865, was 210 tons burthen, and owned in Demerara by L. Siller, Esq. She was loaded with sugar. The cargo was insured in the Atlantic Mutual, New York. The storm was so violent that the crew barely escaped with their lives—the vessel going to pieces soon after she struck. Persons living on the beach say they have seldom witnessed a storm of greater violence. The crew came to this place on the Steamer Hertford and passed on to Norfolk on the Elizabeth City.

☞ Several Northern gentlemen, ourself among them, joined together and put up a good sized and comfortable house on the Ocean beach at Nag's Head, at which our families are now nicely domiciled. The Boat running down on Saturdays and returning on Mondays, enables us to attend to our business during the week and to spend the Sabbaths with our family. A pleasant arrangement. The bathing is splendid and the atmosphere invigorating. And too, for him that has a love for the grandest and most wonderful of Nature's works the location of "Our Home by the sea side" is the place to make weekly pilgrimage during the months the summer solstice is spending its force upon us, to worship the Great Father, bowing in reverence before this revealed evidence of his power and majesty—the solemn Sea. There, from

Till twilights latest hour"

we can watch the mighty waves that have ebbed and flowed from the earliest morn of creation and will echo on til the latest "syllable of recorded Time," aye, and listen through the hours of the night and be gently lulled to sleep by the great anthems swelling solemnly upward from each billow to the throne of the Creator. There at each visit we hear a sermon more eloquent than man can make, and we return to our work feeling greater confidence in the illimitable power and boundless goodnes of the Eternal One.

☞ Dr. KREBS has gone North on a short visit on busines. He will return about the 1st of September.

☞ Capt. WILLIS G. PATRIDGE of Powels Point, will accept our thanks for those large and luscious watermellons. The Captain is a man "after our own heart." May he raise a good crop every year, and may we be here to realize that they are as good as those he has sent us.

☞ In reply to "Inquirer" we would state that Pythagoras was a Greek philosopher, born about 580 B. C. He was the founder of a religious and political association in Southern Italy. He was eloquent, had great influence, and his philosophy had many adherents. In addition to being a metaphysical philosopher, he was a great Astronomer and Geometrician.

☞ Scarcely a week passes but we read accounts of frightful accidents from kerosene lamps exploding and killing or scarring for life, men, women and children. A simple knowledge of the inflammable nature of the liquid may put a stop to nearly all the accidents. As the oil burns down in the lamp inflammable gas gathers over the surface. When the oil is nearly consumed, a slight jar will inflame the gas, and an explosion follows. If the lamp is not allowed to burn over half way down, accidents are almost impossible. Always fill the lamps in the morning.

☞ We fully agree with a cotemporary in the statement that it is a mistake to suppose that a side walk is of advantage only to the person along whose property it passes. Every citizen of the town is equally interested, not only for convenience, utility and pleasure, but the value of all property in the town is enchanced by general paving. The town is thereby rendered more desirable, people are attracted to it, business is induced, labor and population are increased, and worthy enterprises in variety are stimulated. What is for the public benefit should be at least assisted and encouraged by the public. Grading the streets is a part of road making and ought to be done by the town authorities at public expense. A street once well graded will not require much work to keep it in order afterward. It is, in fact, the cheapest system of road making. We are glad to see the good work inaugurated in Elizabeth City.

☞ We try to make the NORTH CAROLINIAN interesting as a local, home paper. This we conceive to be one of the reasons why our paper is better sustained than were those formerly published here. Everybody feels an interest in home affairs—in the events transpiring in their native town and county. Because they find all these chronicled in the NORTH CAROLINIAN, many who once lived here but who have since located in other sections of the Union, subscribe for it. They want to hear from home. How natural. Who reads history with as much interest as he reads biography, and who reads any biography that ever was written with one half the attention that he reads SCOTT or THACKERY, or DICKENS? The one treats of men and women as they appear; the other treat of men and women, and children, and dogs, and ponies, and ten thousand other things as they are. In a word they give the home life of society, and that this is the most entertaining of all is shown by the indisputable fact that its narratives have a thousand readers where other writers have one.

☞ Still scarce—local items. Rapidly growing the—crops. "Woman"—the morning star of our youth, the day star of our manhood, and the eveuing star of our age. Heaven bless our "stars." Mortification sets in—when you pop the question and are answered no. General court—waiting on a half a dozen girls at the same time. Union bonds—seven twenties. Peggy—the name for the shoemaker's wife. Something about women—flounces. First class nuisances—liars gossippers and mischief makers. Delightful—surf bathing. Rather far fetched—jokes from China. Dressed to kill—our butchers. A hand-to-hand affair—marriage. A capital letter—one containing a remittance. How to make time go faster—use the spur of the moment. Nearly finished—the tin roof on Dr. Butt's new house. Going up—the brick work on Sheriff Wood's new building. Drowning men catching at straws—the Democrats of this city, sending for Chamberlain to speechify for them.

Business Locals.

For groceries, for flour, for meal, go to Keatons. He deals fair, sells low, and tries to give satisfaction.

A. E. JACOBS gives all his North Carolina friends a good and hearty welcome when they call to see him at the well known stand of Lovenberg & Jacobs at 35 Market Square Norfolk, Va. He can supply them with all they want in the Dry Goods, Clothing or Notion line.

ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY.—We learn from Washington that the U. S. Attorney General has appointed Virgil S. Lusk, Esq. as special assistant District Attorney charged with the execution of the Kuklux bill. Mr. Lusk is instructed to open his office in Raleigh, put himself in communication with the United States Commissioners and Marshals and local State authorities in all sections of the State, and to receive reports from them of any Kullux outrages committed; to have warrant immediately issued for the apprehension of the offenders and witnesses, and tehold immediate examinations of the case before the United States Commissioners, with a view of committing or binding the parties for their appearance at Court; to search up and collate the evidence in each case, and to take such other steps as may be necessary to secure the conviction of the offenders.—Old North State.

A riot occured on Saturday at Goldsboro, N. C., among 5,000 negroes who were on an excurion. Several of them became intoxicated and when one of their number was arrested a general assault was made on the Police. The result was that one of the riotes was killed as also a policeman.

THE KU-KLUX IN SOUTH CAROLINA. —Washington July 30.—The result of the investigations in South Carolina by the Sub-committee which has just returned from there is likely to bring the question of using military force under the provisions of the KuKlux law prominently and speedily forward. The account which was published here yesterday afternoon, and sent away by telegraph last night, may be accepted with the fullest confidence as a true statement of the condition of affairs found by the Committee in the places they visited, but moderately rather than extremely stated. In the vicinity of Spartanburg hundreds of negroes and whites have been whipped. While the Committee was there the Kuklux raids were not very earnestly carried on, but still the organization was only temporarily inactive. The condition of affairs at Spartanburg is not represented as universal in South Carolina, but for miles in that region there is a complete reign of terror. It is said to be worse than has ever been described. A strong feeling is excited here, and while it has been hoped that the extreme powers of the Kuklux law would not have to be evoked, it is certain that they will be called out without much more hesitation if the outrages do not cease. It is understood that arrangements have been for some time perfected by which the army can be effectively and quickly employed if the necessity should arise. One hundred and forty witnesses were examined by the Subcommittee in the South.

The Secretary of the Treasury has made a decision of which the following is the substance: A canal used for the purposes of trade cannot be treated as a navigable water of the United States, even though it may extend beyond the limits of a single State, and commence or terminate with navigable waters of the United States. Canal-boats, therefore, as long as they remain exclusively within the termini of the canal, are not subject to navigation laws, and, if found trading between district and district, or between different places in the same district, they must be navigating natural navigable waters to be subject to the enrollment and license laws. Hence, if they leave a canal and enter into navigable waters of the United States for purposes of trade and commerce, that moment they become liable to all the provisions of the navigation laws, and to the payment of an alien tonage tax, if without the proper marine papers.

DEATHS.

PERRY.—In Newland Township, on the 8th ult., at his residence, BENJ. PERRY, aged 70. Mr. PERRY lived a christains life and died a christains death.

JOHNSON—At this place very suddenly on Thursday last SALLIE, daughter of ASBERRY JOHNSON aged 6 years and about 8 months.

Little SALLIE was a favorite of ours as she was of all who knew her. We can scarcely realize that we shall never see her more. Her gentle spirit has been wafted to a region where there is neither sickness nor sorrow, but all is rest and peace. Ah how true it is that

"Leaves have their time to fall
And flowers to wither at the North winds breath
And stars to set; but thou hast all,
Aye, all time for thine, O death."

A sympathizing friend, now at Nag's Head, has sent us the following lines written on hearing of little SALLIES death:

What is this my letter tells me?
Little Sallie is away,
Angels came and took your darling!
Little Sallie could not stay.

She was wanted up in Heaven;
Swift the message—no delay,
There amid the Heavenly Choir,
Sallie sits a queen to-day.

She has passed the shining portal.
Where the saints and angels dwell;
She will roam in pleasant gardens,
'Mid the flowers she loved so well.

He who blesses little children,
Takes your darling on his breast;
Calls ten thousand angels round Him,
Sallie is the honored guest.

At the heavenly feast, when ordered,
He will place, with tender care,
Timid, gentle, little Sallie,
For she has a Father there.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A FEW WORDS TO THE LADIES.—Many ladies, particularly mothers nursing, complain of a tired, tho less feeling, or complete exhaustion, on arising in the morning. On the wife and mother devolves the responsibility or regulating the duties of the household. Her cares are numerous, and the mental as well as the physical powers are frequently called into requisition. She often finds her slightest occupation a weary task and existence a burden, while at the same time she has no regular disease. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, if resorted to at this period, will prove an unfailing remedy for this annoying lassitude. The effects of this potent agent are soon seen in the rosy cheek and elastic step of the head of the family, as with restored health and renewed spirits she takes her accustomed place in the family circle. If this friend in need be regularly used, those depressing symptoms will never be complained of, and not only would lassitude not be experienced, but many diseases following its advent be avoided. As a medical agent it has no equal, while its pleasing flavor and healthful effects have made it a general favorite. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild, soothing and efficient. All who have used the Bitters attest its virtues and commend it to use.

WHAT IS IT?
That cause such a rush of people to Dr. Butt's Drug Store? Is it because he keeps such a large assortment of Drugs, Chemicals, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Dye Stuffs, Glass, Putty &c, &c. O yes! that is one of the reasons. All of us know that he keeps the largest and best stock of the above mentioned goods in the City, but my friends there is also another reason for this great rush to Dr. Butt's, it is his
SPLEN

Gen. Sherman Favoring Grant's Re-Election.

This morning I met Gen. Sherman early and strolled down to Congress Spring, and then around the Park. He was vivacious and sparkling as Hathern water, and walked and talked like a boy. As George Alfred Townsend said of miles O' Riley, "There's splendid business" always about Sherman. He is always ready for a pun, a sarcastic repartee, or a strong thought—a very David with the tongue and pen too.

"Do you remember how we managed those Charleston rebels when they wanted to pray for Jeff. Davis in the churches?" asked the General, as we strolled along.

"No. How?"

"Why," said I "yes! pray away—he needs it,"—d—it, if they didn't get mad and go away and pray for Lincoln.

"Been killing a good many Injuns out West, General I asked.

"No; the papers kill more Injuns than we do. Why, if we killed half as many Injuns as the Herald does, we'd be 'short of Injuns.'"

"I see Parker has resigned?"

"Yes; we have so many dishonest Indian Commissioners that Congress resolved to stop the frauds, and they corked up the Indian Bureau so tight that poor Parker had nothing to do but now and then sign his name, and frank envelopes for the department."

"They say he is rich?"

"Not a bit of it," said the General, indignantly "Parker has never made one cent out of his office. His record is pure as snow."

"Your friends were a little disappointed when you refused to have your name used Presidentially," I remarked.

"No, not my friends. They want me to stay where I am. General of the army for life is better than President for four years. Grant regrets that he ever left the army now, and so do I, except that he has done a good work as President."

"Do you think it policy to elect Grant again?"

"Of course I do. Why not? He knows the ropes now—he has become acquainted with the duties—acquainted with thousands of public men, and ten thousand good for nothing White House bummers who would do nothing but harass a new President for the first year. He has just got where he can tell a good man at sight. Humbug men always get the best credentials; every Congressmen signs their recommendation at sight, and many of them deceive a new President. These party frauds are now pretty much played out, and Grant is enabled to deal squarely with true men. Experience and acquaintance is the 'stock in trade' of a good President."

"Who will win in '72?"

"There is no question in my mind." said the General enthusiastically. "I'll bet on Grant against the field two to one."

"Who will run against him?"

"There won't anybody run: but, not being a politician, I can't guess for a moment who will be nominated."

"Hancock?"

"Well, he may be tempted to run. Hancock, you know dislikes Grant personally, and it would be an immense triumph for him to get where he could rank him. Grant never showed any dislike to Hancock. He went more than half way to conciliate him a year ago; but there is a clique in Washington, a social clique, which manipulates Hancock and keeps up the feud. Women have more to do with it than men."

"What do you think of the Ku-Klux bill?"

"Good bill, sir! It has already stopped a good many outrages. The fact that the President has power to send troops into any State to quell disturbances, in itself, is enough to frighten the disturbers of the public peace."

"But John Quincy Adams says the bill 'is an absolute surrender of the principle of free government—placing in the President's hands the power, through that and the 'Election bill,' to raise himself to the Empire."

"All stuff! How ridiculous to talk about a 'man raising himself to the Empire' in this country! Such a man, after declaring for the Empire, might hold a regiment of soldiers in the White House yard for just one day, and then the people would put him in the Potomac River. Why, they shut up Napoleon at Strasbourg, and ducked him in the sea at Boulogne, for just such nonsense."

But in '52 he did ride to the top after all?"

"Yes, but France was not composed of States—sovereign State, as far as each State controlling its own troops—and every Governor, Democratic and Republican; watching jealously his own State militia. We are not France. Let some crazy President declare himself Emperor, and intrench himself in the White House yard with the whole regular army—about 18,000 fighting men—around him, and how long would it take Governors Hoffman, Jewett, Randolph, Geary, Claflin, and the rest, to surround and capture the whole concern? No, sir," said the General, indignantly: "when a President declares Imperialism, every Governor will have to be in the mess, too, and when that shall be the case the country will be too rotten to be worth preserving."

"Adams calls the Ku-Klux bill Grant's negro policy," I remarked.

"All humbug again! It is simply a law making it possible to arrest and disperse unlawful gangs of rascals, black or white, in any of the Southern States, to imprison them and try and punish them. Grant don't have any negro, nor German nor Irish policy. His policy is to protect all citizens, remain at peace, economize and try and pay the debt. All this stuff and talk about Imparialism in America is a libel on the good sense of the people and Adams ought to have too much good sense to talk such foolishness,"

TO CURE A FELON.—As soon as the parts begin to swell get the tincture of lobelia and wrap the part affected with a cloth saturated thoroughly with the tincture, and the felon is dead. An old physician says he has known it to cure in scores of cases, and it never fails if applied in season.—Journal of Medicine.

The Post-office Department has established 2,407 new offices and discontinued 854 offices, making a net increase in number of offices created during the year, 1,555. On the 30th of June last there were 30,045 offices in the United States.

The news received from Persia has not been exaggerated. It is now said cholera, typhus fever and plague are added to the famine. The cemeteries have to be guarded to prevent the starving people from disinterring the bodies for food.

A remarkable baby, with two heads, recently died in Boston, and what was singular, as well as horrible, in the death of the girl, was that one head lived for some time after the other had given up the ghost.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3,000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $3.000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15,000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultiuation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultiuation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A tract of valuable land, containing 356 acres, with fine two story dwelling containing 9 rooms and cook-room. Servant's house with 3 rooms, large barns and stables, all necessary and convenient out-houses, 3 tenant-houses near town, and immediately on the River. About 100 acres of this land is in fine wood and timber, balance in a fine state of cultivation. It has 8,000 grape vines one year old, 3,500 peach, apple and dwarf pear trees, five acres in strawberries which yielded an immence profit this year, ten acres in Lawton and other rare varieties of black-berries, 15 to 20,000 young peach trees with other choice fruits too numerous to mention. This farm has a public road on one side, and the River on the other, where strangers come daily to the landings to receive the fruits and vegetables, and carry them down to Norfolk, Baltimore, Phila., or New York. The land is finely adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, and all other field crops.

The owner of this farm offers to sell in tracts, to suit purchasers, say in 50 to 100 acre tracts, and at prices ranging from 35 to $80 per acre, according to location, buildings, &c.

There is also on this farm a fine fishery, where a seine 1,000 yards long, and 20 feet deep is hauled every Spring. Herring, Shad, Rockfish, Sturgeon and other valuable fish, are caught by thousands at every draw of the seine. And the profits are frequently large. This fishery of itself is worth nearly as much as is charged for the whole property. The terms will be liberal. This is probably the finest opportunity offered any where for a profitable investment.

☞ Fishery has an office, and two houses for hands besides fish house. Then some 500 to 1,000 loads of best fish manure on hand, besides over 5,000 loads of compost made ready for use. This goes with the farm.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE LAND AND LUMBER COMPANY having a large amount of Real Estate of their own to dispose of, and their business having increased to such an extent, they think it prudent to decline acting further as Commission Agents for the sale of lands belonging to others. They will however be glad at all times to furnish every facility to parties coming to Elizabeth City with a desire to look at the country and make purchases if they find it to their interest to do so.

The following list of property, owned by the Company, is offered for sale on the most reasonable terms. Their object now is to acquire a larger monied capital for the purpose of further developing their unimproved lands and carrying out their original design of increasing the Commerce and General Trade of Elizabeth City.

As there are others in the Commission Business, parties are referred to their advertisement for further information.

ELIZABETH CITY.

The following desirable list of Properties in Elizabeth City are offered at very reduced prices for cash or on time payments at rates which make any of them excellent investments for capitalists. We feel confident that this City is destined to become a large place and property will advance rapidly. Emigration is now tending Southernward and the feeling is in universal favor toward Elizabeth City.

A large two-story dwelling known as the Parsonage, with fine double Piazza, front and back, large out kitchen, stables, carriage house, with 17 acres of ground well enclosed. This ground is all within the corporation of the City, and is well situated to lay out in building lots and make out of it ten fold the price asked for it.

A two-story dwelling containing ten rooms, 10,000 gallon cistern and all necessary out-houses, with large lot. Situated on Main Street. A Vacant Lot no better located and not so large as this was sold recently for $1600 cash.

A large brick store house and wharf situate on Water street; in E. City, comprising three lots with 400 feet of water front, permanently wharfed for the accommodation of large vessels. There is erected on these lots a large two-story brick building, 50 by 80 feet, well fitted up for a wholesale or retail trade at present occupied by the "Yankee Store."

A large wood store on west side of Water street 36 by 60, two stories high, being one of the best stands on Water street for merchandizing.

A House and Lot on Riverside Avenue. House 20ft front by 50 ft deep. Containing eight rooms with Pantry and Cellar, all well finished, modern style, and having all necessary out buildings. The lot contains a front of 400 ft, and would be a good location for a large shop or foundry as one whole side fronts on the water.

Also a large number of Wharf Lots, Mill Lots and Vacant Lots at very low prices, some of which are enumerated below. The Wharf Lots are 200ft deep and will be sold to any size desired along the River. Among them are some most eligible situations for Store Houses, Mills and Manufactories of any kind as there is a fine harbor immediately in front of them, having 30ft of water, sufficient for vessels of any capacity. Along Pennsylvania Avenue are offered some of the finest and choicest lots, for dwellings in town at prices varying according to location. This will be the finest street in town, is 80 feet wide, size of Lot 100ft front by 200 deep. There are now a number of first class residences being erected on this street. Immediately in the vicinity of these Lots the Company have erected a large Planing Mill, Sash, Blind and Door Factory at a cost of near $20,000 and also their Saw Mill at a cost of near $15,000. That now is the proper time to invest in those Lots there can be no doubt, as they will double in value in a very short time. Lots not near so good as these, are now selling in other parts of the City at more than double the price asked for these.

VACANT LOTS.

Lots Nos. 150, 155, 158, 161, 163, 165, 167, 170, 172, 175, 178, 180, 182, 185, 187, 190, 193, 195, 198 and 200, situate on Pennsylvania avenue, in the new extension of Elizabeth City, all choice lots, intended for the better class of residences. Size of lots 100 feet front by 200 feet deep. Price varying, according to location, from $100 to $1000.

TOWN LOTS.

MILL LOTS.

Four Mill-Lots situated on Knobb's Creek, so that logs can be taken from the creek to the mill. These lots have 200 feet each of water front, and over 600 feet deep to Mill street, and are choice sites. The purchaser will also have the right of storage for logs in the boom.

PASQUOTANK COUNTY.

The Land and Lumber Company also offer for sale, one thousand acres of their timbered land along the Main Road leading from Elizabeth City to Hertford and Edenton, Said land heavily wooded, soil very rich and about four miles from Elizabeth City. This land will be sold in lots to suit purchasers and at the low price of ten dollars per acre.

They also offer a tract of three thousand acres in Lots to suit purchasers, near the Pasquotank River, ten miles from Elizabeth City and three miles from South Mills. This land is heavily set with wood and also has upon it a vast amount of saw timber, and has a most excellent soil. This is a fine location for a small Colony. There is now a Public Road running directly through it. This tract is offered at the low price of eight dollars per acre if sold to one party, or at only a fraction more if divided into small lots.

The Company will also sell their farm of 250 acres two miles from Elizabeth City. 125 acres cleared and under good cultivation, well fenced, having upon it two dwelling houses, one new and the necessary out buildinos wanted on a farm, and will be sold on very reasonable terms.

Also another farm one mile from Elizabeth City containing one hundred acres, between thirty and forty acres cleared and under cultivation, the balance is now being cut off and is nearly ready to be cleared up and cultiuated. This property is very desirable being so near the City though for reasons first given will be sold at a very low price.

We have a finely timbered tract of land situated on the Albemarle Sound twenty miles from Elizabeth City, containing 124 acres. Good timber land bordering on the water is valuable both for wood as well as saw timber as water trausportation affords a good margin for wood, say one dollar per cord. This will also make good farm land—will be sold for one thousand dollars.

Also one other tract of land containing 154 acres situated immediately on the Pasquotank River ten miles from Elizabeth City, valuable for wood, and is excellent farming lands, would be sold for six dollars per acre.

GATES COUNTY.

The Land & Lumber Company have a tract of 350 acres of timbered land one half mile from Chowan River and three miles from Winton the county seat of Hertford county. This body of land is well timbered and will be sold at the low price of three dollars per acre.

☞ The most direct and cheapest route is to go to Baltimore by N. C. R. R., then Bay Line steamer to Norfolk, Va., then steamer to Elizabeth City, N. C.

DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT

Has made the most astonishing cures; so quick, so rapid are the changes the body undergoes, under the influence of this truly wonderful medicine, that

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphili, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumorous discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Theum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges. Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm and all wastes of the life principle, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure—a cure is certain; for when once this remedy commences its work of purification, and succeeds in diminishing the loss of wastes, its repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel himself growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving, and flesh and weight increasing.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excels all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for KIDNEY & BLADDER COMPLAINTS, Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinuence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all casee where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust, deposits, and when there is a prickling, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the Small of the Back and along the Loins.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. They are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the System in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.
